Amanda M. Bow, Director, Communications, NHPCO

In March of 2018, three NHPCO staff members – Katherine Kemp, Hope Fost, and I - embarked on a trip to Severn, Maryland to meet Albert Sherard, a 92-year-old Vietnam Veteran and Hospice of the Chesapeake patient. We interviewed Mr. Sherard, his daughter Winette, and members of the hospice staff to create a video that would give partners a tool to promote the work they are doing, help educate the public about We Honor Veterans and more importantly, recruit new hospice partners to the program. We gathered great material to work with but came away from this trip with much more. We all felt honored to spend time with an American hero and witness the beautiful connection that he and his Veteran-to-Veteran volunteer have made. To see the benefits of the We Honor Veterans program in person and in action is priceless!

The video shows the two Veterans at Albert’s kitchen table preparing plants that will eventually make their way into the ground. The connection between the two is evident on screen and Albert’s daughter Winette reinforces the idea. “I think he feels good that it’s a Veteran he can talk to,” Winette said. “There is something that happens that makes it a brotherhood, even though they are very different ages.”

NHPCO Staff Attends Welcome Home Vietnam Veterans Day Events

March 29th marks the official Welcome Home Vietnam Veterans Day. At the end of each March, organizations and states across the US hold events with the hope that each and every Vietnam Veteran will receive the thank you and warm welcome that they should have received when returning home decades ago.

This year, staff from NHPCO was lucky enough to attend two commemorative events – first with Level Four partner Hospice of the Chesapeake in Pasadena, MD and next with Level Four partner Gilchrist in Hunt Valley, MD. Both partners have strong Hospice-Veteran Partnerships and relationships with other Veteran-centric organizations in their community. They made sure to include young service members who took part in pinning Veterans as they entered. The programs included musical performances, an Honor Salute, and a number of speakers who touched on the message of the need to help Veterans heal the psychological wounds from battle in Vietnam and the treatment they received when coming home from war.

As the generation of Vietnam Veteran era continues to age, more and more patients are entering the care of We Honor Veterans partners and the importance of these events cannot be stressed enough. We Honor Veterans Releases New Video to Recruit Hospice Partners

Hospice of the Chesapeake CEO & President Ben Marcantonio encourages other hospice programs to join WHV. “We became keenly aware of how many Veterans are served through our hospice population. Those people who need hospice care - of those people, 25% in our region are Veterans. So just that in and of itself was a compelling argument for our commitment to this aspect of our service.”

WHV partner programs are invited to use the video to educate their community about their partnership and for promotional opportunities. The video can be found on the WHV website and on YouTube.

Vietnam Veteran Albert Sherard is featured in the new We Honor Veterans video that will be used to educate the public about the program and recruit new hospice organizations.

We Honor Veterans Community Partner Gives Veteran a Dignified Farewell

Beverly Brown, StoneMor Partners, L.P.

Charles Osckle made his home in the Sacramento, CA area in 1962. He served in the United States Air Force and later served the Sacramento community locally as a butcher. Charles Julian Osckle was born on May 4, 1931. On January 30, 2018, he took his last breath on earth. In the months preceding his passing, Charles visited Sacramento Memorial Lawn on a regular basis, spending time making conversation with the funeral home and cemetery staff and sharing his life stories. Through these interactions employees began to know Charles in a more personal way; each one now agrees this was their privilege. Charles was a unique person, a Veteran who served to protect and defend our freedom; and someone who could make you feel as if you were an old friend.

As the Friday, March 9 memorial service to honor the life of Charles Osckle was being planned, the arranging Funeral Director spoke with his daughter and learned that she would be unable to attend the upcoming service. Charles’ wife had preceded him in death; and no other family members would be present. That is when the staff at Sacramento Memorial Lawn set in motion to make sure that the U.S. Air Force Veteran received a dignified farewell, and one that was well-attended by his community. The Funeral Director collaborated with the U.S. Air Force Honor Guard, Patriot Guard Riders, and other community members to honor Mr. Osckle’s life.

Mortuary Manager Patricia Kerley said, “Bringing local Veterans into focus and recognizing their service and sacrifice is one way to remain committed to our nation’s heritage. To be a friend and supporter of United States Air Force Veteran Charles Julian Osckle was an honor and privilege. As a Community Partner in the national We Honor Veterans Program, Sacramento Memorial Lawn is committed to honoring our local Veteran community with care deserving of a hero.”
